2014-03-06

AMU seeks to contribute to the establishment of new economic relations among peoples, based on a “Culture of Giving” which presents the concept of the universal destiny of goods, as a true basis for effective social justice. It attempts to favour innovative forms of integration and collaboration with projects of what is usually called social economy, with a particular attention to the project “Economy of Communion”.

AMU also presents many other very significant projects in this area of social economy.
